6. The Ministers noted that multipolarity provides more opportunities for EMDCs to unlock their constructive potential and enjoy universally beneficial, inclusive and equitable economic globalization and cooperation. They agreed that, in the context of global changes, it is crucial that developing countries work together as closely as possible to promote dialogue and mutually beneficial relations among nations. The Ministers highlighted the importance of the Global South as a driver for a more equitable, just, democratic and balanced multipolar world order, especially in the face of significant global challenges, such as deepening geopolitical tensions, strategic competition among nations, economic downturns, protectionist measures, technological changes, and migratory crises. They further cautioned that escalating antagonisms will not lead to peace or development and recalled the urgent need to focus on peaceful coexistence, tolerance, cooperation and dialogue, in contrast to narratives that only deepen fragmentation and geopolitical polarization. They underscored the pivotal role BRICS countries can play in giving the Global South a platform for voicing their concerns and interests, as well as actively participating in the promotion of a more just, sustainable, inclusive and multipolar international order.

7. The Ministers reiterated their commitment to reforming global governance by promoting a more just, equitable, agile, effective, efficient, responsive, representative, legitimate, democratic and accountable international and multilateral system in the spirit of extensive consultation, joint contribution and shared benefits. They further reiterated the urgent need to achieve equitable geographical representation in the Secretariat of the United Nations and other international organizations in a timely manner. The Ministers stressed the need for the selection and appointment process of UN executive heads and senior positions to be guided by the principles of transparency and inclusiveness, and carried out in accordance with all the provisions of Article 101 of the UN Charter, with due regard for recruiting staff on a geographical basis as wide as possible and the increased participation of women, and adhere to the general rule that there should be no monopoly on senior posts in the UN system by nationals of any State or group of States.

In the year of the 30th anniversary of the World Trade Organization (WTO), they recognized that it is the only multilateral institution with the necessary mandate to set the rules for the multilateral trading system and lead on the multiple trade dimensions, including the development dimension, of international trade discussions. They reaffirmed their commitment to continue to promote the necessary reform of the WTO to improve all its functions while strengthening its foundational principles. They underscored the need to strengthen the WTO in light of emerging arbitrary unilateral and protectionist measures.
